About Us:

The goal of the Canadian Culinary Federation is to unite chefs and cooks across Canada in a common dedication to professional excellence. The Canadian Culinary Federation (CCF) was founded in 1963 and incorporated in Ottawa as a non-profit association in 1972. Since its inception, the federation has enjoyed a deep and long-standing tradition as Canada's true representation of the professional chef and cook.

Our role is to:

- Promote professionalism in the food service industry
- Provide a network for chefs and cooks
- Educate our members and the public on new development in the industry

The Okanagan Chefs Association is part of the Canadian Culinary Federation, the largest association of cooking professionals in Canada. We offer the opportunity for career advancement to culinarians, through networking with other cooking professionals across Canada.

We are a not-for-profit society, managed by an elected Board of Directors, maintaining affiliation with the CCF by way of charter and acceptance of national bylaws. We are a group of Chefs, Cooks, Junior Chefs and Associates whose primary purpose is to network and promote culinary professionalism.

The Okanagan Chefs Association is a member of the Canadian Culinary Federation (CCF) and the World Association of Chefs Societies (WACS) which is a global association of Chefs.

We have ten meetings per year, eight of our meetings are dinner meetings, and are hosted by our members and two meetings are educational meetings. The dinner meetings provide opportunities to visit many of the Okanagan's finest restaurants. Throughout the year, we also schedule some of our meetings as field trips, featuring tours of farms, wineries, and other places of local culinary interest. Typically we have a guest speaker at meetings to provide our members with information on the latest culinary trends or products available. We meet for 10 meetings per year, with a hiatus in July and August.

Membership Types:

- Chef: This membership is open to those who have attained their Professional Chefs accreditation. In B.C., this would be the Red Seal. They can also qualify for membership if they have been a professional working Chef for several years, with the approval of the OCA Board Executive
- Junior Chef: This membership is open for a Culinary student or apprentice, who is working towards acquiring their professional accreditation, but has not yet received it.
- Associate: This membership is open to those that are not a Chef or Culinary student, but are involved in the Culinary industry. They might be a supplier for a food distribution
